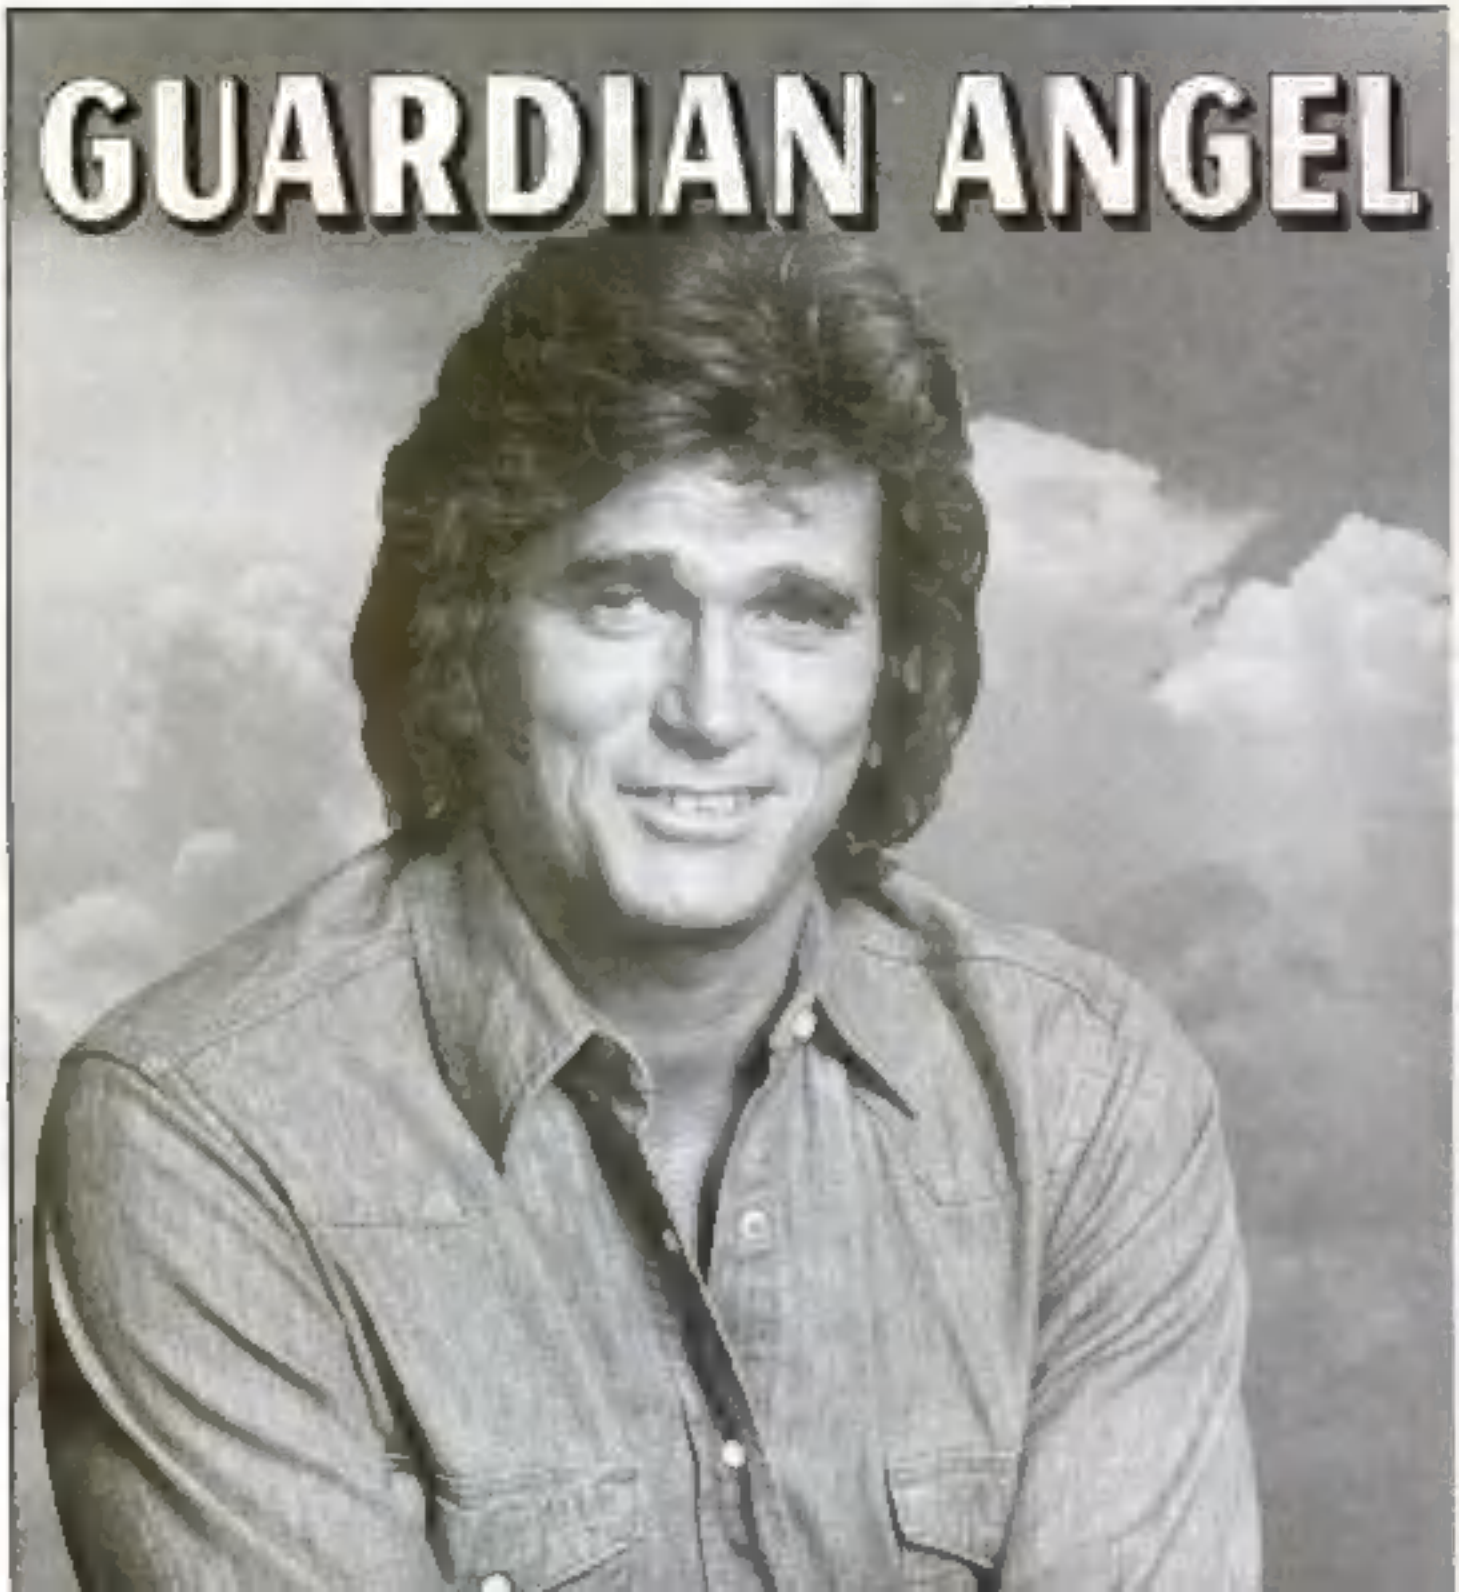
MICHAEL LANDON COMES BACK TO EARTH AS AN ANGEL!

Eerie picture taken two weeks AFTER the funeral

'Highway to Heaven' comes true when star appears to EIGHT eyewitnesses!



GUARDIAN ANGEL

MICHAEL LANDON APPEARS TO 8 PEOPLE!

Turn page for their incredible heartwarming stories

Highway to Heaven star Michael Landon died less than five weeks ago but his benevolent spirit is already back on Earth — miraculously curing sickness and changing lives for the better!

So say eight rock solid Americans who claim to have encountered the dead actor in airports, businesses, homes and the open road since liver cancer robbed him of his life on July 1.

Heart patient Bill Tuhmer of Atlanta says Landon's spirit came to him on a dark, deserted highway and changed a flat on his mini-van without a jack.

In yet another startling case, retired schoolteacher Rita Moll says Landon knocked on the door of her modest home near Columbia, S.C., and cured the inoperable stomach cancer that was killing her with a wave of his glowing hand.

"The appearance of guardian angels is nothing new but having a celebrity like Michael Landon return to Earth as one is unprecedented in the history of religion," said Marcus Sims, author of the book, Guardian Angels and Benevolent Spirits: God's Hand in the Affairs of Men.

"After speaking with the eyewitnesses there isn't a doubt in my mind that Landon's spirit has sought out and helped at least eight people.

"What Landon's spirit does in the next few months could change the way we think about God and religion forever."

Reports that Landon's spirit had returned to Earth as a real-life guardian angel began to trickle in just two weeks after the beloved 54-year-old actor died.

Oddly enough, the superstar was a firm believer in an afterlife. On his deathbed he told wife Cindy Landon he would watch over their family from beyond the grave.

Michael cured me of cancer!

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Retiree Rita Moll was dying of stomach cancer and so feeble that she could no longer eat or walk. Then — in what the former schoolteacher calls a "miracle, pure and simple" — the figure of Michael Landon appeared by her sickbed and wiped out every sign of her disease!

"He stood there smiling, but saying a word," recalled Mrs. Moll, 67. "He was dressed as a preacher, with the collar and all, but it was him — I'd know him anywhere. Just looking at him, I was filled with a sense of peace.

"Then he lifted his hands and waved them over me. Next thing I knew I fell asleep and after the most restful slumber I have had in months I woke up feeling as good as new. It's a miracle, pure and simple."

The gray-haired grandmother says that since her amazing visit from Landon on July 7 her doctors have been unable to find any trace of the cancer that was killing her. She has gone back to her normal activities and says she's looking forward to a long, healthy life.

Mrs. Moll says her cure from the angel of Michael came while she was lying in bed with her eyes closed, listening to the radio. Suddenly she felt a protective hands nor feet.

"I opened my eyes and there stood this preacher, looking exactly like Michael Landon," she remembers. "I said hello, but he didn't answer. He just smiled the most beautiful smile. Instantly I understood — it really was Michael, come back as a sweet angel from heaven."

After the visit from Landon, the ailing woman was dramatically better. Doctors later confirmed the cancer was healing.

Mrs. Moll believes it was God who cured her, but she says she is grateful to Landon, His messenger.

"Michael Landon was always my hero, and when he played a guardian angel on television I used to get tears in my eyes just watching him," Mrs. Moll says. "Now he is one."

PHOENIX, Ariz. — I had been hiking in the Sabino National Forest on a beautiful morning that almost became my last day on earth. I was near my destination and plunged down a 600-foot cliff.

It might have been curtains if I'd hit the bottom, but I managed to grab a bush and stop my fall. But there's no way, get from down and no way to get back up. All I could do was cry and pray.

Suddenly, from out of the blue, a rope dropped down with a loop for my foot. Before I knew it, I had been pulled all the way back to the top. And when I saw my rescuer, tears of joy flooded my eyes. I had been saved by Michael Landon.

He wasn't a ghost or anything like that. He was real. He said he would always be looking out for me. "I'll always be there when you need me," is what he said.

I know I would have died that day. But Michael saved my life.

Then he looked into my eyes and said, "It wasn't your time yet, Janet. Just live your life to the fullest." Then, he just vanished.

JANET MOWRY, 31

HOUSTON, Tex. — I always thought I'd be the last one to even think of taking my own life, but there I was, standing on a rooftop 21 or 22 stories up, just seconds away from jumping. The girl I loved had dumped me and I was desperate.

Then, from behind me I heard a voice, the most soothing voice I'd ever heard, saying, "Please, Peter, don't."

I looked around and it was him, Michael Landon, the same man I'd been watching on TV all my life. My heart stopped because I knew he'd been dead — but there he was.

He reached out his hand and led me down to the first floor. Then he was gone — and I realized God had sent a special angel to save me from a terrible mistake.

PETER WENDT, 36

ATLANTA, Ga. — My wife had suffered a terrible stroke and had been in a coma for four days. And then suddenly in the middle of the night the hospital called to tell me she was awake and wanted to see me.

I hopped in my mini-van and headed off for town, but was in the middle of nowhere I got a flat tire. I've had two heart attacks and I'm not supposed to exert myself, so I was standing there at 3:30 in the morning, wondering how I would get that tire changed without ruining myself.

Then out of the blue a car appeared, an old gray car, and a guy stepped out and started walking my way. And when he got right up close, I couldn't believe my eyes. It was Little Joe, Michael Landon. The newspapers were saying he was dead, but I knew Michael Landon — and this was him.

And he looked at me with those kind eyes and said he'd be happy to change my tire. And then he just did it — with no jack, no lug wrench, no nothing.

He just lifted up the mini-van with one hand and changed the tire with the other. Then he said something like, "Well, that ought to hold you, my friend," and strolled away.

I just stood there speechless.

BILL TANNER, 53

HARTFORD, Conn. — I couldn't hold back the tears as I left my doctor's office. He had just told me that I would never be a mother. I ran, himself into a cab in the empty waiting room and sobbed my eyes out.

Suddenly I felt the presence of someone else in the room. I looked up and couldn't believe my eyes. Michael Landon was sitting beside me. He put his arm around me and told me that everything was going to be all right.

I thought I was imagining it, but last week I went back to the doctor and he couldn't believe it. I'm pregnant — and I know now that Michael worked a miracle for me!

GLORIA BEARDON, 33

— for these eight people!

JAKE STRONG, 37

KEY WEST, Fla. — I'd never given much thought to such things as guardian angels and miracles. And I sure wasn't thinking about Michael Landon the night I decided to finish my life.

Drowning, losing my two boys, drowning in debt and about to lose the last thing I had in the world . . . my trawler Bundle. What good's a fisherman without a boat?

I had taken Bundle 20 miles into the Gulf and I was just about to open the sea cocks and let the sea take me and Bundle to the bottom together. That's when I saw him.

Like a ship breaking through the fog, Michael Landon came to me . . . not just in spirit. He was there!

He told me I couldn't give up and quit . . . that I had to fight, just like he did in the last weeks of his life. He told me to cherish every minute of life as though it was my last and to never give up having faith in myself.

I can't explain the warm feelings that came over me. I just headed Bundle home. Michael Landon saved my life that night!

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — I was crying as I drove north on Interstate 65 to meet my husband at the airport.

While he was attending his mother's funeral in Detroit, the bank turned down our loan. That was our last hope before foreclosure.

I was crying so hard I could barely see the road. I was about eight miles from the airport when my uncle Dan appeared in the front seat beside me. I turned to look and there was Michael Landon!

He talked to me like a father — soft but firm. He told me to stop feeling sorry for myself and do something to solve the dilemma.

"I know that you and your husband are good people, who have sweated blood on your farm," he said. "Don't give it up without a fight. Be strong," he said. Then he disappeared.

I told my husband what happened, but I'm not sure he believed me.

The following Monday we went back to the bank and pleaded our case all over again. They turned us down. We went to another bank, and then another. To our amazement, the third bank agreed to loan us enough money to harvest the fall crop. We can make it now, thanks to Michael!

ANNIE SCOTT, 30

ROBERT McLANE, 19

ASHEVILLE, N.C. — No one in this area believes me, but Michael Landon saved my life!

I was heading back home on my Harley-Davidson after a night class. It was late at night and I was tired, so I was pushin' the needle to around 85.

I felt this sudden weight on the seat behind me. I turned my head around and there was Michael Landon, cool as hell, ridin' backup.

"Pull over right now," he said. "Pull over and stop right now!"

I couldn't help staring. He was just like he looks on TV. He wasn't even wearing a helmet.

"Pull over right now," he said again. I was so stunned I couldn't think so I pulled my bike over to the side of the road.

I no sooner stopped than the front tire blew with a loud bang — right down the middle. Boy, was I shaken!

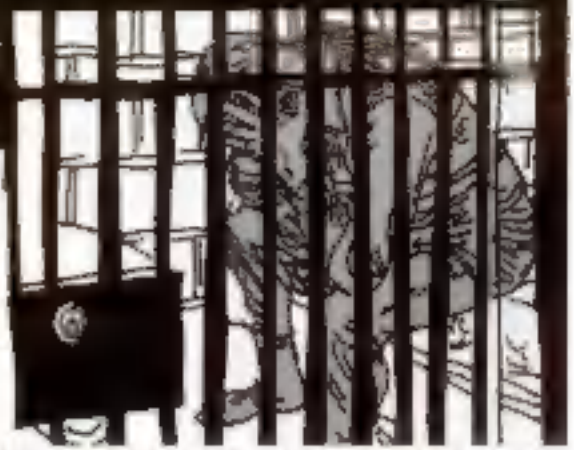
If I'd been hittin' 85 when that tire went, they'd still be scraping me up off the highway.

I turned back to thank him — but he was gone. I used to watch Highway to Heaven sometimes. Now I don't miss a single rerun. No way.

This miracle photo proves he's ALIVE!

This incredible picture was taken two weeks after Michael Landon died, proving that he's returned to Earth as an angel just as eight witnesses say. The photo was obtained by author Marcia Sims, who says he has a sworn statement to prove that it was taken by a housewife in Omaha on July 13. Landon succumbed to cancer on July 1. Photo analysts confirm that the picture has not been altered or retouched in any way.

Dad faces life in prison for killing fiend who raped tot



A distraught dad could spend the rest of his life in prison for killing the man who brutally raped his 2-year-old daughter.

"You raped my little girl," snarled Michael Travers as he buried a knife in the chest of Charles Paugh, a man he thought was his friend.

Paugh had offered to babysit the 2-year-old and her 4-month-old sister while Travers and his wife went to a store in Fairfax, Va.

When they returned an hour or so later, the 2-year-old said Charlie had hurt her. "Mrs. Travers took her daughter into the bathroom and found there was vaginal bleeding," said Police Officer E.M. Quickenberger. At first, Paugh claimed not to know how the little girl got hurt and then said, "The only way a child can get injured like that is by breeding," Officer Quickenberger testified at a court hearing.

The horrified father walked up to Paugh and said, "You raped my little girl." Then he stabbed him, according to cops.

"All I can say is my little girl was the hurt and hurt," said Mrs. Travers. "She said Charlie did it. I told my husband. I told him she was bleeding.

"I don't think there is anybody in the world who wouldn't have done the same thing. I don't think he meant to kill him. I think he did it out of love for his daughter."

The little girl was taken to a Fairfax hospital where doctors found that her injuries were consistent with sexual abuse, said defense lawyer R. Dean Kilpatrick. The youngster spent two days there.

Travers and his family had been visited from their home two weeks earlier. His wife and kids were staying with his mother-in-law because there wasn't room there for him. Travers was staying with Paugh in his trailer.

Travers is in jail on a murder charge. "A grand jury will decide whether he will be tried for first-degree murder or second-degree murder or set free," said Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Jim Pirkett.

Mrs. Travers says their little girl seems to be doing okay. "All she wants is for her daddy to come home," said Mrs. Travers.

"IT'S KIND OF EXCITING right now," says Don Alley Sr. of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

LONELY GRAMPS PUTS 'WIFE WANTED' SIGN IN HIS YARD!

He gets dozens of takers!

By FRED WRIGHT
Staff writer

When Don Alley Sr. found himself without a wife after 29 years of marriage, he put up a king-size sign advertising for a new bride — and offers started pouring in by the dozens.

The 47-year-old Bay St. Louis, Miss., man has received phone calls and letters from gals ranging in age from 24 to 80 — and he's been seen on the town with a few of them.

"It's kind of exciting right now," says Don, who's in the final stages of a divorce.

"I was frustrated after 29 years of being married to the same woman. Then she comes up with this freedom bit.

"After 29 years, if you can't train 'em, you turn 'em loose."

Don runs Don does part-time security work and lives on a 4½-acre farm with three sons. All together, he has 11 children and 7 grandchildren.

The love-happy dad couldn't believe the response he got when he stuck his "Wife Wanted" sign in the front yard.

"The phone rang so much I almost hired a switchboard operator," he jokes.

Don says he stunned some "think I'm crazy. The woman I'm divorcing couldn't care less. She's into a religious binge."

Some callers played pranks, he says.

"Two or three said, 'Would you meet me?' but when I went, nobody showed up."

Delighted Don admits he's new at this wacky way of meeting women, but says he has no regrets.

"I don't make the kind of money that lets me go honky-tonk some nights — my wife, my in-laws, some of those so-called religious folks we have around here who've never met me but they're going to judge me."

Don says he learned quickly how to screen his phone calls.

"You've got a lot of widows out there. I even had one guy call up. He said he was gay. I said, 'I'm glad for you but I'm not interested.'"

Other men have called asking Alley to pass on the names and phone numbers of women callers he's not interested in.

He says he's past taking the calls, one at a time.

"I've led a sheltered life since I was 19. It's a whole new world out there.

"I'm not 19 any more, but I'm sure as hell not over the hill either," he says.

If you would like to have long, long luxurious hair, we invite you to receive a $14.90 jar of Capilong — FREE!

We are so convinced that Capilong can help give you long, luxuriant hair that we offer your first jar free.

NEW

Right after puberty, a girl's hair is complete. It becomes thicker, more luxuriant, and grows ½ to 1 inch per month.

If this dream seems far away from you, it is because of well-known reasons: Scalp problems, unknown glands that are too active or not active enough, harsh treatments such as curling and coloring, sun, sea water, etc.

Can Capilong repair damage, normalize your scalp, and accelerate your hair growth?

The answer is easy. If we are taking the risk of offering you free a $14.90 jar (21 day treatment), it's because we are convinced that as soon as you see the results in the mirror, you will become a faithful consumer.

How does "Capilong" work?

First of all, you should know that Capilong is a unique formula, manufactured under laboratory conditions with pharmaceutical control, guaranteeing that it's a serious product. It has a DUAL action based on the most recent hair discoveries:

1. Capilong acts on the scalp and contains an ingredient, which has well-known properties that regulate scalp conditions.

2. It acts on the roots of the hair as well as on the hair itself with a VEGETABLE complex based on natural plant extracts: nettles, silver birch, horsetail, coltsfoot, clover, milfoil, rosemary and vervaine.

How is Capilong applied?

Every evening before going to bed, rub about fifteen drops of Capilong into your scalp, then give it a prolonged massage. Don't rub the hair too hard against the skin because this damages the hair rather than strengthening it. Instead, press your head firmly with your fingers, sliding the scalp against the cranium with little short movements in order to achieve gentle penetration.

Judge for yourself with our compliments. Cut out and mail the coupon below, with $14.90 and you will receive not one but TWO jars of Capilong. Open and use one of these jars free of charge, keeping the other in reserve. If after using the first jar you are not absolutely delighted with the results, return the SECOND jar and we will immediately give you a full refund. If you are not satisfied, therefore, this jar is free. And if you are ecstatic, the first jar is still free, so you have absolutely nothing to lose. And everything to win.

Try the first jar of Capilong free, and judge for yourself. If you want to continue with the second jar.

You understand that we would not make this offer if we did not have absolute confidence in the effectiveness of Capilong... and in your complete satisfaction. This is the simple reason that we are offering you the first jar for a free trial.

Don't forget to measure your hair before starting the treatment. Then watch day after day as your hair thickens and becomes stronger, full of vitality. You will see how your hair will become perfectly smooth, and how easily your comb slides through it. You will notice that your hair grows more vigorously. If not, just return the second jar for your full refund — and no further obligation.

For men, too.

If your hair is thinning, but not because of hereditary baldness, this is all true for you as well. And you, too, can take advantage of this free offer.

EXTRA GIFT

If you return this coupon within five days, you will also receive hair guide, "Ten Simple Proven Secrets for Obtaining Long, Luxurious Hair." You will learn that it is senseless to cut your hair in order to accelerate growth. This belief is false. You will learn how to brush your hair to keep it from splitting and breaking. You will discover the natural way to give your hair softness and body. You will find out if you have fatty hair (See Text), as well as many other things...

Doc hypnotizes lady patients and makes them his love slaves!

CONVICTED: Dr. James Ty-

Top Canadian shrink faces prison for sicko sex games

By REED WRIGHT
Staff writer

A top Canadian psychiatrist faces four years in jail for hypnotizing his curvaceous lady patients — and turning them into sex slaves!

Dr. James Tyhurst, 69, was found guilty by a jury of forcing four women patients to play "master-slave" games in which he chained, whipped and sexually molested them.

"The first victim claims she had a sexual experience with God while in the doctor's office," says an investigator.

"She says she saw the face of God in Dr. Tyhurst."

The sadistic doctor's sexual escapades took place from 1966 to 1988 at his cozy home and at his University of British Columbia office in Vancouver, where he was head of psychiatry.

Dr. Tyhurst, a father of three, had been a pillar of Canada's psychiatric community credited with revolutionizing mental health care across the country.

...next room while Dr. Tyhurst was playing his bizarre sex games, the jury was told.

One victim testified Dr. Tyhurst made her strip naked and call him "master" while he called her "slave." He had chains, a slave collar and skimpy slave garments which he made his patients wear — with nothing underneath.

"All four victims suffered from what he called 'a lack of discipline in their childhood' and that was something he said he had to impose on them. He got them to enter into signed master-slave contracts," an investigator testified.

Dr. Tyhurst was convicted of four counts of indecent assault and one count of sexual assault causing bodily harm. He faces a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison.

OUR FAT-CAT SENATORS ARE ROBBING US BLIND!

I'm madder than a politician with an exploding cigar over the fat pay raise our sneaky senators have given themselves.

This pack of scheming, conniving reptiles met in the dead of night to pull this big con on us hardworking taxpayers — adding $23,100 to the stinking rich $101,900 paycheck they were already stealing!

That comes to a juicy $125,000 a year, folks — and we all know these greedy, fat-cat, lowdown skunks only work about half a year to get their hands on all that loot.

Let's face it. These savings and loan hucksters who make us blind date two-bit prostitutes ringsiders in the highest

Write today! Here's how

We're made it easy for you. Just clip this letter, clip it out of the paper and mail it to your senator. If you need his name and address, you may call the Federal Information Center at their TOLL-FREE number: 1-800-347-1997 senators we've voted into office to serve us, not bleed us. At least the J.B. Hungs who cleaned out our life savings to buy diamonds and yachts did it in broad daylight. Not crying out loud.

Our mollycoddling senators climbed into the darkened hallways of the Capitol building in Washington 'round midnight to ring us taxpayers.

They might as well have waved the national treasury during the Desert Storm parades.

Well, folks, I'm pig-hitting mad and I'm not going to take it anymore.

I've worked hard all my life to provide a decent life for my loving wife Thelma Jean and the kids. I'm a five-time Airborne ranger patriot who'd stand up and fight to the death for this great country even now, with a steel plate in my head from the Battle of Pork Chop Hill in Korea.

And I'll be damned if some pot-bellied senator is going to pay his country club dues or buy his wife a new Mercedes with my hard-earned tax man-ey.

Let's face it. These thieves have stolen from the little people long enough.

So I'm asking my friends and readers across this great land to rise up and let 'em have it where it hurts — right smack in their wallets. Let's flood 'em with so much mail protesting this rape of the Big Apple and ugg America that they'll think twice about taking another penney in pay. The last they've already swiped. They might even give back some of the stolen money!

Let an astounding politician know what you think about their thieving ways — and they may even return some of the loot they've stolen from us, you fat cat!

DEAR SENATOR _____:

You greedy reptiles have a lot of nerve using your pockets with our hard-earned tax money. You guys deserve a $25,000 raise like a hole in the head. I'm mad as hell and I'm not going to take it anymore. If you take this outrageous pay hike, I'll fight like the devil to have your butt out of office come next election.

Yours Truly,

Cure heart disease with vampire spit, say experts

The most promising new development in the treatment of heart attack victims is bat spit!

Scientists have discovered that the saliva of vampire bats contains a protein that prevents blood clotting. Experiments show it can be used to dissolve existing blood clots, a primary cause of heart attacks.

Research published in the American Heart Association's journal Circulation shows that the substance works twice as fast as the

the fact that basically what we're doing is we just exploited a mechanism that vampire bats have used for thousands of years," said researcher Stephen Gardell, who has studied the bat saga.

Experts say the substance has been tested only on rabbits and it may be several years before it's on the market.

AMAZING. 3,500-mile swim took Brigitte Dalle from Atlantic City, N.J., to Land's End, England, across the chilly North Atlantic.

WOMAN SWIMS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC OCEAN!

. . . and into the record books

By CARL MEYER
Correspondent

Mom-of-three Brigitte Dalle has earned a place in history by becoming the first person ever to swim across the Atlantic Ocean!

The soft-spoken Frenchwoman covered the 3,500 miles in just over three months — and at one point survived a horrifying encounter with a giant squid that tried to drag her to the bottom of the sea.

Her amazing feat was witnessed by a boatload of coaches, attendants and medical experts who trailed Brigitte every inch of the way from America to Europe, monitoring her vital signs and feeding her a specially formulated energy diet.

"This is something I've always known I would do," said Brigitte, stepping ashore in Land's End, England.

"I put myself on automatic pilot and never looked back," she said.

The 29-year-old dental assistant averaged a demanding 30 miles every day, swimming for 12 hours and resting for 12 on the backup boat.

Before sliding into the water at Atlantic City, N.J., Brigitte greased herself up with a special mixture of insulating lubricants and shark repellent.

The stinky concoction must have worked because the sharks gave her a wide berth all the way. But the courageous lady had a terrifying run-in with a giant squid.

"We were about 120 miles east of the New Jersey coast when this slimy tentacle wrapped itself around my ankles," brave Brigitte recalled.

"I screamed and took a mouthful of saltwater.

"Fortunately, my backup crew carried a stun gun. They shocked the squid's tentacle and the creature took off.

"They said it measured at least 12ft feet."

Other than that, she says her biggest challenge in the marathon swim was boredom.

What's next for the determined swimmer?

"As soon as I've rested up, I'm going to swim the Pacific — from San Francisco to Melbourne, Australia," she vowed.

"It's only about 8,000 miles."

She covers 3,500 miles in 3 months & survives attack by giant squid

Expert explodes UFO myth

SPACE ALIENS ARE STUPID

Bizarre UFOs are bubble-headed aliens who couldn't match wits with a garden slug, says a prominent UFO expert. They've been investigated the intelligence they inherited from their head-scratching ancestors!

By Bob Tammyh
Special to The Sun

Most people think space aliens are super intelligent, but a UFO expert says they're idiots who would have a fork of a time matching wits with a garden slug, much less a human being!

"Extraterrestrial intelligence is not only a myth, it's a contradiction of terms," declared Dr. Johnson Reed, whose books on extraterrestrials and alien encounters are considered standards in the field.

"Space aliens are like spoiled brats who inherit fortunes from their parents.

"Their hard-working, educated ancestors gifted them with an amazing technology that lets them traverse the entire universe in starships but they don't have the drive, ambition or motivation necessary to use their minds to make things even better for themselves.

"As far as I'm concerned space aliens are parasites. They live the good life that their forebears provided waste." Dr. Reed's controversial report sent shock waves through the scientific community but the Vatican, America-based expert produced strong evidence to support his claims.

For starters, documents smuggled from the Soviet Union earlier this year revealed that a space alien crashed a mere 70 on intelligence tests.

A CIA report on three space aliens who were pulled from the wreckage of a UFO in Brazil in 1958 also concluded that "extraterrestrials are feeble-minded. They struggled with grade-school arithmetic and couldn't understand concepts as simple as star and night.

"We hardly know what to make of this," exclaimed the authors of the CIA report. "Commonplace thinking would suggest that space aliens possess tremendous intellects but observations of lost primitive indicates that said: "In hundreds of interviews with people who've had close encounters, I heard the same thing. Aliens possess a superior and almost magical technology but they're incredibly stupid.

"One woman I spoke with said the extraterrestrial that confronted her in her house in 1988 spent two hours trying to figure out how to take a nut off a bolt.

"A lot of people aren't going to agree with what I say, but the findings of proof is there. Space are a stupid species, and it's by the fact

Confidential

Dear Wanted Man in Nashville: You've been sending letters to me for years now and I STILL don't make out a word you write. Type your letters or have somebody else write them, pleased.

Dear Humiliated in Hamlet: That's what you get for bending over in a 16-year sitdown!

Dear Curious in Montgomery: A banana in her panties? That's the oldest bitch in the book!

Dear Frustrated Mother in Kansas City: I don't care if she is 14 or 40. If he stole money from me I'd kick his head out of my house!

Dear Angry in Metropolis: I don't write ANGRY on anybody's jock — but on your case I'll make an exception

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell a little of your story in her column. Write to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462.

Dear Dotti: I'm engaged to an incredibly possessive man. He has never abused me physically but he has to know my every move. God forbid if I ever wanted to go out with my friends. But if I so much as ask him where he's going or where he's been, he freaks out.

I got engaged to this guy before I realized how possessive he was, Dotti. Please tell me what to do. — Confused in Chichester

Dear Confused: The way I see it you can do one of two things. Call off the wedding or spend the rest of your life in hell.

Let's see a photo of you in a swimsuit, dumpy Dotti

Dear Dotti: You're always bragging about how good you look but that picture of yours looks like it was taken with a 99¢ box camera. To top it off, you're up and down with cover-boys from your forehead to your chin. To top it off, you probably have a big gutbelly and cellulitethighs like rivers of Cincinnati.

If you're not too sure of it, you'll publish a picture of yourself in a bathing suit and let all the world see what an ugly old broad you REALLY are! — Wise Guy in Virginia Beach

Dear Wise Guy: I'll bet you know that my picture is updated every year and the one that appears on this page was taken in January — 1982. If you don't believe it photocopy, using bread to find judge. Within the next three weeks I'll guarantee that one of us is a bathing suit — and all I've got to say about it is — heart patients be aware!

Will anybody help pay my way through college?

Dear Dotti: I've applied to a few colleges lately and have been pleased at the price of tuition. I really want to further my education so I can get a good job to help out my mom and dad but there's no way I can afford tuition without a loan — and if I get a loan there's no way I can pay it back. I was wondering if your readers could help me out by sending a dollar or two to my address. — Frustrated in Ely

Dear Frustrated: If you really wanted to go to college, you'd get a job and pay your own way like I did. What you're really after is a handout — and you're not going to get it from me or my readers, who have better things to do with a buck!

I'm a crusader who sends sunshine to the hospital

Dear Dotti: I'm a eighteen who jumps up drug dealers and brutalizers with a baseball bat. By my own count I've put over 100 pieces of trash in the hospital. Some people think I'm a jerk. What do you think? — Brother in Boston

Dear Brother: You're not a jerk, you're a superhero! Bottom line! Go for!

Can a 15-year-old girl experience true love?

Dear Dotti: Is it possible for a 15-year-old girl to fall in love? I'm asking because I'm 16 and I got these real strong feelings when this special boy and I are together. — Curious in Oklahoma

Dear Curious: I hate to burst your bubble but 15-year-old girls don't know the psychological or emotional maturity to fall in love. Those strong feelings you talk about are raging hormones, kiddo!

Ask the Countess

Is that a satanic symbol on my baby's back?

Dear Countess: When my baby daughter was born six weeks ago I couldn't have been happier but now I'm worried sick. Don't think I'm crazy, Countess, but five tiny moles have appeared on her back — and if you were to connect them with lines you'd have a pentagram, the sign of the devil and the occult! What could this possibly mean, Countess? I can't help but think that Satan is making some kind of claim on my daughter and I'm scared to death. — Worried in New Orleans

COUNTESS SOPHIA SARAH

Other readers personal advice based on your horoscope. Write to Countess Sarah, Weekly World News, 600 S. East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla., 33462, include your birth date. The Countess allows a free. Do not send money.

Dear Worried: My dear, you've been reading too many horror novels. Those moles are nothing more than a birthmark that will disappear as your baby grows older. Don't worry about it.

Dear Countess: I just read a letter from a girl who is afraid she's pregnant because she had sex with a boy who has herpes. I've had herpes for years and I've been very careful not to pass it on to anyone else. Do you think I'm wrong to keep my mouth shut? — Worried in Wisconsin

Dear Worried: Yes, I do think you're wrong. Your silence could cause a baby to be born with herpes, which is a terrible thing. Please tell your boyfriend to see a doctor.

Dear Countess: I've been married for 10 years and have two children. I've been unfaithful to my husband a few times but I've always felt guilty about it. Now I've met a man who I'm crazy about and I'm thinking of leaving my husband and children for him. Do you think I should? — Confused in Cleveland

Dear Confused: Yes, I think you should. Your husband and children will be better off without you.

Dear Countess: I'm a 16-year-old girl who has been going with a boy for two years. He's a real nice guy and I love him very much but he's been pressuring me to have sex with him. I'm afraid that if I don't he'll break up with me. What should I do? — Worried in Wyoming

Dear Worried: Tell him that you're not ready for sex yet and that you don't want to lose him. If he's a real nice guy he'll understand.

Dear Countess: I'm a 17-year-old girl who has been going with a boy for two years. He's a real nice guy and I love him very much but he's been pressuring me to have sex with him. I'm afraid that if I don't he'll break up with me. What should I do? — Worried in Wyoming

Dear Worried: Tell him that you're not ready for sex yet and that you don't want to lose him. If he's a real nice guy he'll understand.

Dear Countess: I'm an aspiring poet trying to spread God's word through my writing. I captured a recipient and if I win I'll get to meet with some editors and may be able to get a book of my poetry published. If you can help me win that contest, I'll be eternally grateful. — Anxious in Mississippi

Dear Anxious: I wouldn't have psychic visibility but most people never realize it because the powers are so subtle. If you're serious about developing your psychic abilities — and I know that you are — daily prayer and meditation will show you the way.

Dr. Reiff said one of the best kept secrets of WWII was Hitler's homosexuality. "Eva Braun was his friend and companion. But his lovers were Mengele, Rudolf Hess and just about anyone else he entertained. The man had a voracious sexual appetite and it evidently continues to this day," Dr. Reiff said.

The aging lovers are spared from one heavily fortified mountain hideout to another almost weekly depending on their health.

It might take a massive assault to capture them, even if we knew exactly where they were from day to day," said Dr. Reiff.

Dr. Reiff hopes to enlist the help of former Israeli chief Nazi executioner Investigator Menahem Bar-On and Nazi hunters from Germany, Great Britain and the U.S. to capture Hitler and Mengele.

A worldwide manhunt for Mengele was called off in 1985 after two purported remains were dug up in Brazil. The brutal killer died in 1979 and been buried in a grave near Sao Paulo.

Forensic experts from Israel, the U.S. and Germany exhumed the body and examined the bones — and discovered the world had been the victim of an elaborate hoax.

The body in the grave was not Josef Mengele. The skull was too small, one leg was shorter than the other and the remains contained no trace of Mengele's boyhood bone disease.

Freelance writer Gerhard Rempenty claims he saw the two old Nazis holding hands while looking at pottery at a roadside stand near the town of Paisa.

"They were giggling like a couple of high school teeny-boppers," he

HISTORIANS confirm that Josef Mengele's death was faked — and they say he is alive and well at the side of his beloved Adolf in South America.

SWEET TOOTH

Sugar-lovin' granny gobbles 3 pounds of the stuff every day!

By JOE SEAGER

Wacky granny Mavis Rines is so hooked on sugar she downs three pounds of the luscious stuff every single day — straight from the bag!

And devilmay-care Mavis insists gobbling all those granules hasn't hurt her a lick.

"I've poured more than five tons of that stuff down the hatch in the past 10 years and I'm healthy as a horse," the crusty Canadian told reporters in Vancouver, British Columbia.

"I may have put on a few pounds in the last couple of years but I'm sure not fat and I've still got all my teeth. So if I want to eat a little sugar I'll eat it the sugar by sand."

Admitting Mavis did have her sweet tooth cut down after she survived a spine-chilling brush with death in a car crash back in 1980.

"I was up in the hospital with a concussion and just had this terrible hunger for sugar," the bewildered widow recalled.

"I didn't want cookies or candy or anything like that — I just wanted plain old sugar. And as soon as I got out of the hospital I got me a bag and started eating it by the handful."

Craving Mavis put away just a pound of sugar a day at first, but her family soon grew so fed up she now devotes three times that amount.

"I always keep a big bag on my person and anytime the urge strikes me I just take the bag out and start pouring the stuff down," said the happy-as-a-lark lady.

"People do look at me kind of funny once in a while. And I really don't care. The most what I can say is that [illegible] I feel."

But sweetpuss makeup Mavis insists she doesn't care for the sweets part of it at all.

She takes her sugar [illegible] and all — [illegible] coffee and the sugar [illegible] cookies," said the granule-gulping grandma.

"And I never put sugar in my coffee."

GULP! Mavis Rines pours her sugar right out of the bag — and swears it's down with a glass of cold milk.

Stop wild spending sprees — with a money diet!

People suffering from a new disorder — financial bulimia — go on wild spending sprees and then put themselves on strict money "diets," says an expert.

"Financial bulimia names the binge-and-purge eating disorder called bulimia," says clinical psychologist Frederick Kasanoff.

"Millions of people are in financial bulimia. They're out of control when it comes to handling their finances. They either spend like there's no tomorrow — or restrict themselves so severely they suffer hardships.

"The thrill they derive from spending is like the satisfaction a food binger gets while eating a plateful of doughnuts. The binger offers tremendous gratification until it's over — then the guilt sets in.

"Financial bulimics try to regain control and end guilt by severely cutting their spending.

"One woman who had charged her credit cards to the hilt was so guilt-ridden she decided to 'economize on daily expenses.' For months she ate nothing but peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, turned off all the lights in her apartment except for one, and took cold showers to save money on hot water. It was a way to punish herself for her extravagant overspending.

"Ironically, this rigid self-denial eventually results in another spending binge."

Here's how to fight financial bulimia, Dr. Koenig said.

● Put yourself on a reasonable budget and stick to it. It will force your attention on making sure your income covers necessities first.

● Put money aside each week for fun. Never allow yourself to get so money-starved you binge at the first chance.

● Think of fun things to do that are free or cost very little, such as gardening or volunteer work.

● Discover what triggers your spending binges and find other ways to cope. If a fight with your spouse usually results in a shopping trip, next time work off your anger by taking a walk.

Travel tips for Russian tourists

The Moscow newspaper Pravda has offered the following travel tips for Russians touring the United States:

● Don't be shy about accepting gifts. "Never refuse anything."

● If you are offered an odd job, take it. "You might earn the equivalent of a year's salary in rubles after just a few days."

● Don't be embarrassed to speak broken English. "Many Americans often have trouble speaking it properly themselves."

SNATCHED FROM THE JAWS OF DEATH!

By RICK DONOVAN
Staff writer

A 5-year-old boy was snatched from a death so horrifying it staggers the senses — he was being eaten alive by his pet snake!

When firemen arrived at the boy's home in Long Beach, Calif., they recoiled in horror. A 12-foot-long Burmese python had already devoured the terrified youngster's foot and was slowly [illegible]

Firemen rescue boy from mouth of killer python!

A fire department rescuer said that when he arrived at the home, the snake was coiled tightly around little Alex Henry's leg and had the boy's foot inside its mouth.

"It was a heck of a thing to see," a neighbor said. "It's definitely the most bizarre thing I've ever seen in my life."

According to fire department spokesman Bob Baldwin, Alex was home alone and had just fed Damien the python a full-grown live rabbit.

"After it had eaten the rabbit, the boy took the snake from its cage and put it on the floor in his bedroom," Baldwin said. "The snake then slithered under the bed. The boy couldn't quite reach it with his hand, so he tried to pull it out with his bare foot. That's when the snake grabbed him."

Baldwin said the boy panicked and started screaming bloody murder. A neighbor heard his screams run in the house and hurried into the bedroom window.

What she saw made her blood run cold. The neighbor quickly [illegible] department [illegible] raced to [illegible] to smash out a window to get to the boy.

The firemen pulled the mattress off the bed to get to the snake," Baldwin said. "Then one of the men grabbed the snake behind its head. That apparently frightened it and it released the boy's foot.

Ohio gal gives motorists an eyeful — by directing traffic in the buff!

By FRED WRIGHT
Staff writer

A curvaceous lady wearing nothing but a G-string woke up morning motorists when she skipped through busy downtown intersections — and directed traffic in the buff!

The 23-year-old Dayton, Ohio, woman said a spat with her boyfriend, police say, so the gal even by stripping off her jeans fast and running down busy streets and sidewalks.

The 5-foot-7 would-be traffic cop wore pierced-toe shoes before police nabbed her and charged her with disorderly conduct.

Police refused to name the wayward, arrested as hitting short-cropped black hair.

"She directed traffic safely and there were no accidents," observed Sgt. Ted Blevins of the Dayton police.

"One of the passersby said officers could learn something from her."

With her pussy cat nabbed up in one hand, the streaking gal had everybody's attention.

"She'd stop periodically at intersections and direct a little traffic.

"People were standing on the street corner. As she ran down Third Street, people

GIANT HOBOSCOPE

FOR WEEK OF
Mon., Aug. 26 — Sun., Sept. 1

By Countess Sophia Sabah

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

You deserve a little space!
Set some time aside for yourself this week and relax. Take in a movie. Call a pal. Do whatever sounds good to you.
Things are going to change if you keep your eyes in the grindstone. Money ought to be here right very soon and all because of the contacts you've been about your work.
Try not to feel too bad about a loved one's woks. You didn't bring them on!

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Look before you leap!
If a moneymaking scheme sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Wait. Not a gamble over the week-end looks promising.
Be flexible when it comes to family matters. A loved one may try to pressure you into something wild and outrageous. Keep out in front and outstrategize him.
Just relax if a romantic invitation comes in an unusual setting — and then enjoy yourself!

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Have a happy little time!
Make that long delayed phone call to a sweetie and reap the benefits!
If money matters start nagging you, use your own good sense to put a stop to the trouble. All that's needed is some firmness.
Tell a family member to put their money where their mouth is — or shut up!
Look for a gift from a loved one. If it doesn't fit, don't be shy! Ask them to get you what you look good in.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Go for whatever you want!
Don't let a big price tag on an item you want put a damper on your spirits. Bargain for it and it should be yours at a price that won't break your budget.
If you're single, you could suddenly find yourself with a new love interest. And if you're already taken, look for more romance — all day long!
Go all out to have a good time! Look for good times on Tuesday.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Be bold! You should win the day in a sticky situation if you're decisive.
Quick action may be needed, and you should be the one to make that bold decision, the one that should bring home the money!
Your energy level should be high for at least three days this week.
Last all those pesky things that need to be done and then do them one at a time — and feel great about what you've accomplished.
This week you're shiny.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Stop spinning your wheels!
Go for those golden opportunities that should be piling up all around you over the next few weeks.
Money and happiness can be won by the right — and quick — decisions.
Become more suddenly more street-wised with meaning for your life. Recall them carefully for moneymaking tips.
The home front should be filled with happiness and fun. Get ready to play!

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Play hooky!
You could get some unplanned time off through a stroke of luck. Something you've invested major effort in could pay off in a vacation.
Even humdrum chores should seem like play this week thanks to the happy atmosphere all around you.
You should have the ability to find a solution to a worrying romantic problem. Go for it and then relax with your loved one.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Take some risks! You can't lose!
Be tough when you have to, but don't hesitate to let a sexy neighbor know where their business stops and yours starts.
Attend an outdoor event this week-end and remember sending a small wager on it. Lady Luck should be with you!
A friend may try to lean on you because your advice is sensible and caring. Give that necessary support but hold off handing over any money.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

It's about time!
Everything's falling into place in your life, and something really terrific sure looks like it's headed your way. Take the time to sit down and enjoy it.
Don't be greedy if you win something unexpectedly in the mail. Share it with loved ones and friends.
A new and exciting relationship could be in the cards for you in the not-too-distant future. It could be someone you meet in a store.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 23-Jan. 19

Keep an open mind!
Suggestions and proposals should be coming your way fast.
Check out sources before you put your money down on what could be a sure thing.
Help an advice from someone you trust to make the right move where matters of the heart are concerned.
Expect a phone call late at night with some very good news about someone you've been thinking of a lot lately.

If your birthday is this week . . .

Mon., Aug. 26 — Sun., Sept. 1

It's going to be a busy, busy year — and an upbeat one!
There shouldn't be any time for the blues in the next 12 months.
Your love life should be better than ever with you calling the shots.
Some exciting ideas for increasing your financial security should come your way early in the year, so that by year's end you could be feeling pretty confident.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Stick up for yourself!
Signs indicate that someone may be trying to take the credit for your hard work. Don't let them get away with it!
Go to the top and set matters straight at once.
Your feisty outlook on life should serve you well this week both in romance and in dealings with cash.
You may have to fight to get some

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Put the world on hold!
Be only what must be done, then sit back and let others take over for a change while you enjoy your relationships.
Your tendency to behave impetuously in a social setting should serve you well this week if you accept its limitations to what could be a wild and crazy outing.
A phone call or a letter could

World's first flying dog!

By RICK TRACY
Correspondent

Pet owner Dabney Walker says his incredible pooch barks, wags his tail, — and flies from treetop to treetop just like a bird!

"He's been flying ever since he was a pup. We've had to make some rather unusual adjustments in our owner-pet relationship," said Walker, a retired college professor who lives near Tulsa, Okla.

"Some people talk about their trained bird dog, but I've really got one."

Walker's amazing airborne mutt doesn't bury his bones. He stashes them in the nest of an old crow. When they play "go fetch," Walker cranks the stick about 30 feet in the air and the pooch flies up and grabs it.

"He dreamed of a neighbor's cat who got too close to his nest. He protects his home like a bird does eggs. I think that cat is still hiding under the house.

"If you get too riled up the wintery guards will use a trick he learned from his pigeon friends and bombard you with an unpleasant surprise."

Walker bought his wonder dog, Whisper, as a pet when they were very young.

"He looked perfectly normal then," Walker said.

Walker was giving Whisper a bath that night when he noticed the dog had webbed paws. As Whisper grew, so did his webbed paws.

"Today, he looks like a cross between a flying squirrel and a bat. He can't explain the webbed feet. If he ever starts laying eggs, when [illegible] I might have a flying dog [illegible]," Walker said.

WHEEEE! Rex, like a bird and spoiler, his heroes up in a tree, says his owner, retired college professor Dabney Walker, left.

NEWS readers want this man CASTRATED!

By TILLY KERNS

Sex monster Damien Camus has infected hundreds of innocent women with lethal AIDS and the punishment, say NEWS readers, should be castration — or worse!

In fact, a staggering 90 percent of 23,000 readers who responded to a You Be The Judge questionnaire that ran with our July 9 story on Camus said the monster should be "fixed" in such a way that he can never have sex again.

As we reported at the time, the 36-year-old man got AIDS from one of his many sexual conquests and has since vowed to infect every woman he can.

Authorities in Lyons, France, say Camus has already condemned 100 victims to a slow and agonizing death by AIDS. And even though photographs and wanted posters have been plastered in public buildings and singles bars city wide the monster remains at large.

In addition to castration, readers suggested these punishments if Camus is caught before the AIDS he's spreading claims his life, too:

- Death, either by official execution or vigilante justice.
- Life imprisonment.
- Torture, including, as one reader put it, "a five mile jog down a major highway while roped to the bumper of a speeding car!"

Huge asteroid is SIX MILES WIDE!

Doomsday rock hurtles toward Earth!

By DICK DONOVAN/Staff writer

Scientists say that somewhere in space — at this very moment — a "doomsday" asteroid six miles wide is hurtling toward our planet at a speed of about 18 miles a second.

Experts warn that a cosmic [illegible] ing explosion is either sent [illegible] did, just as the dinosaurs are [illegible] believed to have been [illegible] day rock of that magnitude wiped out by an asteroid 65 [illegible] would devastate life on Earth [illegible] million years ago.

[illegible] by blocking out sunlight. [illegible] And the question isn't if a [illegible] doomsday rock will hit Earth but WHEN.

"Eventually, it will hit and be catastrophic," declared Tom Gehrels, a professor of lunar and planetary science at the University of Arizona.

"The largest rock Earth is known to have struck in recent times was the Tunguska asteroid that exploded over Siberia in 1908 with the force of a 10-megaton nuclear explosion. It leveled 60 million trees in a remote area of Siberia. If that asteroid had struck a densely populated area, millions would have been killed.

"The rock that is now hurtling toward us is at least 10 times bigger than the Tunguska asteroid. That's a whopper."

Earth came within a hair-breadth of catastrophe on March 23 when a half-mile-wide asteroid streaked by the very spot on space where Earth had been only a few hours earlier.

"If that relatively small rock [illegible] asteroid [illegible]

[illegible] collided with North America, millions of people would have been killed by a blast 12,000 times greater than Hiroshima.

That terrifying near catastrophe was revealed in the world in a recent report by the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

Experts say there are probably 100 Earth-crossing asteroids hurtling in deep space, each as large as the [illegible] so far, 134 have been observed and their orbits plotted. Now they are being added to the list at the rate of about two a month.

Besides potential doomsday asteroids is the enormous challenge facing asteroid hunters like Professor Gehrels. If they can be discovered in time, thereby a way can be found to avert a collision.

For example, NASA is now studying the possibility that they can be nudged off their collision course with nuclear blasts. But there are some who believe nuking them would only destroy Earth in a shower of fragments.

"It's a fascinating challenge," declared Dr. D.U. Gubser, NASA's associate director for space technology. "There have even been proposals to trap them in Earth's orbit" to mine them for precious metals, he added.

For now, science is in a deadly race against time and the clock is ticking.

Husband kills nagging wife with booby-trapped cat!

Cuddly kitten goes KA-BOOM & blasts [illegible] come

By TERRENCE MOST
(Special correspondent)

Christian Bollack couldn't bear to live another day with his nagging wife Marie so he booby-trapped her pet cat with explosives, say cops — and blew the tragic woman to smithereens!

"I've been a cop for 22 years and this has to be the coolest, most calculated murder I've ever seen." Police Lt. Marc Bourdier told newsmen in Orleans, France.

"The suspect taped plastic explosives to the cat's stomach and rigged them to detonate if they were tampered with," he continued.

"He knew full well that his wife would find the time and try to pull it off. And sure enough she found what was left of her and the pet in the kitchen of their home after the bomb went off."

Bollack, 28, was arrested and charged with first degree murder less than 24 hours after the July 22 explosion that killed Mrs. Bollack, 24.

In his statement to police, Bollack repeatedly said "I had to do something because Marie was no longer a loving wife. She nagged me all the time about the color of my socks, what I did or didn't want for dinner, anything that came to mind.

"We used to be so happy together but after three short years of marriage she changed," he added.

"I had to kill her because I don't believe in divorce. It was the only way out."

According to his unpaid confession, Bollack said he got several books on explosives from the library and set out to design and build a bomb powerful enough to blow his wife to kingdom come.

He said he got all the materials he needed from hardware stores and hobby shops and attached the bomb to his wife's cat, Kitty, at around on July 22.

The bomb clerk foiled the murder plot when he called police — who quickly grilled him as the murderer and got a confession the next afternoon.

Bollack is now in jail without benefit of bond pending the start of his trial, which is tentatively scheduled to begin in December, authorities announced.

"If convicted as charged Mr. Bollack will almost certainly spend the rest of his life in prison," Lt. Bourdier said.

Army brass give medals to Desert Storm birds

by JOE BERGER
Staff Writer

Dingbat British military bosses have just awarded medals for bravery to the dafflest gang of draftees ever called to war — a squad of squawking, squabbling parakeets!

The six raucous recruits served 173 days of active duty aboard the destroyer HMS Manchester during Operation Desert Storm. Their job was to help teach wacky Iraqi foe dem Hussein all he needs to know about winning over human buddies in the event of a poison gas attack.

But some spoilsport sailors insist these dirty birdies don't even deserve a medal for good manners — much less a ribbon for bravery.

"All they did was bother and squawk and make a nuisance of themselves the entire time they were with us," groused one shipmate.

The peeved warriors were called to duty in January after ship bigwigs decided parakeets would be useful on the destroyer — because the little guys love dirt at the first whiff of gas, providing an early warning for humans.

Navy bosses borrowed the birds from a gang of Gibraltar grade school students, who jumped at a chance to contribute their feathers to the war effort.

And when the fighting was over, the school's 30 kids nominated aboard the Manchester to be reunited with Dhash, Joey, Isla, Chrissy, Rosie and Magic — and which the ship's commander drape bronze bravery medals around their feathery little necks.

The citation read: "Commendation for bravery award for meritorious conduct and devotion to duty aboard Her Majesty's Ship Manchester during the Gulf War [98]."

But some of the perky parakeets' shipmates still aren't buying it.

"This makes a laughingstock of everything we do, to hand out medals to a bunch of birds," grumped a sailor named Sid. "How can you [illegible] proud about getting a medal, knowing there's a bunch of

You're judged by the color of your hair

The color of your hair influences the way people think of you — and can even affect the first impression you make on a stranger, experts say.

A study shows, for example, that red-haired men are seen as being quite effeminate, rather ugly, timid and non-threatening.

Oddly enough, red-headed females are seen almost exactly opposite. They are described by most subjects as more intelligent than women with other hair colors.

● Blonde women are seen as the "ultimate expression of femininity." They are considered attractive, rich, successful and happy — but not overly bright.

● Dark-haired men are seen as the most intelligent, relatively happy and successful with no personality extremes.

● Dark-haired women are described as "average in every way. They have the image of being normal, familiar and

How to keep lotteries from ruining your life

Lottery junkies gamble away not only money but their happiness as well, says an expert.

But you can tell if you're becoming addicted to the lottery — and take steps to head off disaster, according to psychologist Maureen Lafquist.

By REBECCA SPALDING
(Correspondent)

You show signs of being a real lottery junkie if you:

- Make special trips that are [illegible] just to purchase lottery tickets.
- Start feeling you truly do have "lucky" numbers.
- Buy increasing numbers of lottery tickets as weeks go by.
- Feel a sense of excitement building with each subsequent lottery drawing.
- Become angry — more than just disappointed — when you don't win.
- Are surprised or upset to hear your spouse or friends commenting about how much you spend on lottery tickets.
- Buy [illegible] publications to help select lucky numbers.

How can a lottery junkie fight back against the costly addiction?

Dr. Lafquist made these suggestions:

Take a general survey of your feelings. Does playing the lottery actually make you feel sad?

Do you feel the lottery has a certain power or control over you?

Do you feel worse about yourself? Having a clear knowledge of negative effects the lottery is having on you will help give you the initia[illegible] tive to stop playing it altogether.

Set up a lottery budget. Put aside enough money to make sure that all your bills are paid, plus enough for other forms of entertainment.

Then set aside a small amount for lottery playing — and stick to it.

Replace buying lottery tickets with another activity that you enjoy. Do something you've been meaning to for a long time, like a movie or start a project.

Added Dr. Lafquist, "If you find playing the lottery is taking away some of your happiness rather than adding to it, then you should consider doing [illegible] about it."

Sky diver commits suicide by taking off parachute in midair!

By DICK DONOVAN
Staff writer

An unhappy man tried to get to heaven by taking a six-hour skydiving lesson and making his first jump alone — so he could shed his parachute on the way down!

Cops in San Benito County, Calif., identified the dead man as 24-year-old Abdoulraas Khashipoor, who had recently moved to San Francisco from Massachusetts.

According to Sheriff Harvey Nyland, Khashipoor took a $171 cab ride from the Frisco Bay Area to Tres Plata, a popular training and jump site for sky divers.

"He took a six-hour skydiving course in Tres Plata, then insisted that his first jump be solo," a sheriff's spokesman explained. A plane took him up to 1,800 feet and he made his jump.

"But on the way down, he took off his helmet and unstrapped his parachute. Then he let all the air out. There was a note in his pocket that indicated he had recently arrived in the area from Massachusetts.

"The note said he was very unhappy and couldn't cope with life.

"He said he wanted to go to heaven and he thought this was the best way to get there."

Judge tells nightclub: You can't keep 'em out!

NIGHTCLUB can tell that a couldn't keep out nerds just because they dressed like Pee-wee Herman.

By SCOTTY FAIR
Staff writer

A Los Angeles judge just won cue for the nerds, telling a trendy night spot it can't keep anyone out just because they don't dress "cool."

Judge Milford A. Maron ordered the popular Vertigo nightclub to maintain an open admissions policy and to stop trying to prevent their chic patrons from geeks — folks who look like the character made famous by comedy star Pee-wee Herman.

The nightclub was called into court after it turned away two undercover inspectors from the state Alcohol Beverage Control Board.

As the holder of a state license to sell alcohol, the club has an obligation to serve the general public, the board said in its complaint.

But Joshua Kaplan, an attorney for the nightclub, said the judge's ruling violates free enterprise rights.

He said the club will operate as usual while it appeals the ruling.

Four people sued another trendy Los Angeles nightclub, Mayan, last October claiming they were kept out because they didn't fit the doorman's image of "cool."

A judge ordered the Mayan nightclub to pay damages to the four people.

Gals cry their way to the top

Women don't succeed in the real human world of business because of their innate body or good looks — they cry their way to the top.

"Behind every woman who has succeeded in business is a river of tears," said West Coast psychologist Dr. Hans Kopf. "When the going gets tough, tears ease the pressure."

Dr. Kopf and colleague Dr. Gerhard Leubner recently interviewed 100 women in and out of top management positions in the U.S., Europe and Japan.

"More than 70 percent of the women attributed their crybaby skills to their success."

Rene Vidrera, a French bank executive attending a seminar in Berlin, openly admitted she bawled her way to the top of her profession.

"Before I tortured, I tortured more, me violent for hours," she said.

"They can't handle women who cry. You slip them a few teardrops.

"Tears are better than [illegible] I used those assets on my rise to the top."

Most men don't like masculine women who show an emotion.

"They treat them like another man," said the psychologist.

"Men expect women to be soft as a buttercup and show signs of weakness, such as crying," he said.

The survey showed that men yield to women who cry because they feel superior and aren't threatened.

Ghouls scream for woman's life

As hooting spectators shouted, "Jump! Jump!" heroic Canadian fireman Bob Pearson was risking his life to prevent a troubled woman from leaping into a web of locked, high-voltage power lines at Vancouver, British Columbia. The misidentified woman had climbed onto a three-story high grid supporting transformers and power lines carrying thousands of volts. Just as the woman was about to make her death plunge, Pearson made a last-ditch lunge and managed to grab the woman's arm. Had she slipped and touched a wire while her brave rescuer was holding her, both would have been fried to cinders. But the woman was brought down safely . . . much to the disappointment of some sicko workers in a nearby office building.

Get nude or I'll kill your hubby, preacher tells gals

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

The Rev. Charles Harris is going to be preaching the Gospel behind bars for a while — because he threatened to kill their husbands if they didn't take their clothes off!

The 34-year-old married pastor has been convicted of harassing 19 Kansas City area women, calling them at home and asking them to undress and perform other acts, police say. The women received between 10 and 15 calls each — and they were told their husbands would be killed or injured if they didn't.

"He was a pillar of the community, so this was a real surprise to his parishioners," said Det. Greg Scott of the Olathe, Kan., police department.

"There were ongoing harassments for three to five years in the Olathe, Kan., area. Sometimes — that was what was terrifying to the women. He didn't use obscenities, but what he asked was in the terror mode. We believe he got gratification from women's fright."

Det. Scott said Rev. Harris, head of a small Pentecostal church, had several methods of approaching his victims. All of them equally terrifying. Often he would look up a number in the phone book, call and if a woman answered, tell her he had been hired to injure the woman's husband if she didn't follow his orders to remove her underwear and perform other acts.

Other times the perverted pastor would call young girls and tell them he was with a modeling agency. He would ask the young victims some mild questions — like how tall they were, how much they weighed — and then move on to sexual questions.

Police finally focused on Rev. Harris as a suspect when they received the man just as he was hanging up on his victim.

After following him and photographing him for several months, the cops developed enough evidence to arrest him.

Rev. Harris was convicted of 16 felony counts of making terroristic threats by using the phone to cause another person fear of bodily harm or injury. He faces up to 35 years in jail on those charges and one misdemeanor count of harassment by telephone. Det. Scott said.

Man buries his car for insurance money

By FRED WRIGHT

Last fall, Dennis Walton tried to stay ahead of the repo man by burying his '39 Chevy four feet underground, gather say, and claiming it was stolen.

But when cops dug the thing out, it had a pile of junk crushed flat by five tons of wet earth.

And Walton, 41, has been charged with felony theft.

Walton is "a nonstop liar, a real renegade," according to Det. Douglas Johnson of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department in Libby, Mont.

"He's got a history of crooked dealings."

Walton lived at least the latter portion of his relatively short life in Libby, Mont., a small town of 2,700 people in the northwestern corner of the state.

ACCUSED Dennis Walton in recent police mug shots after his arrest

. . . but dirt flattened it just like a pancake

He buried the car and told his insurance company it had been stolen, police say.

Walton, who lives in the nearby town of Troy, used a backhoe to bury the Chevy at a logging site belonging to a friend.

"The dirt just caved the car right down in," Det. Johnson says.

"The weight of the dirt and all the spring caved the roof right down onto the seats and floor and all the windows.

All the time we're bloomin' mad," Det. Johnson says. "I bet the mud weighed almost five tons."

He says the car is a total loss "although they may save the engine and drive train. Right now the car is impounded until the insurance company decides," he reports.

"It was a sporty little two-door," Det. Johnson says.

Police might never have known about the underground auto burial. Walton started bragging about his buried car, Det. Johnson says.

Walton is out on bond and there is a warrant out for his wife, Kim. "She drove it for him to bury it," Det. Johnson says.

Just how badly damaged was the '39 Chevy?

"The whole thing is maybe three feet tall," Det. Johnson says with a laugh.

"It looks like a Ferrari now – except that it's a little longer."

...ke those ...pay in blood,' vows mom

Shattered mom Alacina Tarbaque prowls the gar-bage-strewn streets of Salvador, Brazil's crime-ridden ghetto, searching for the savage organ hunters who blinded her daughter — by gouging out her eyes!

By SCOTTY PAUL
Special correspondent

The outraged mother of three is driven night and day by a desperate urgency to avenge the brutal mutilating of her daughter by a band of fiends who are growing rich selling human organs on the black market.

"Those evil bastards stole my baby's eyes," the 27-year-old Alacina sobbed. "But I'll make them pay dearly for what they did. I won't rest until I get my revenge. Never!"

Her blinded, 8-year-old daughter Ilana is just one of hundreds of children and teenagers in Brazil who have been crippled or killed by organ hunters who supply eyes, hearts, lungs, livers, kidneys and even bone marrow willing to pay outrageous sums of money with no questions asked.

"My little Ilana was taken from her bed in the dead of night," Alacina said.

"I feared she would be raped and murdered or be sold to a brothel in another city. There is much despair in the world for child prostitutes. In my city, this happens every day.

"But two days later, the police came and drove me to a clinic where the devils left her to die after gouging out her eyes."

A medical official in Brasilia said most of the organs are sold in Europe where wealthy patients in need of transplants are able and more than willing to pay staggering sums for the organs they need.

"The eyes of my baby taken from Mrs. Tarbaque's daughter surely ...tched at least $50,000 each on the European black-market," the official said. "You can just imagine how much a dying multimillionaire would be willing to pay for a healthy heart."

But for Alacina Tarbaque, all the money on Earth could not pay for the horrifying butchery inflicted on her daughter. The sinister theft of Ilana's sight transformed a once-gentle mother into a vengeance-crazed fury.

"I will find those who did this to my baby and I will kill them," she vowed. "I will make them suffer as my daughter suffered. I will make them pay in blood!"

Japanese execs hire Ninja assassins to bump off bosses

BANKER Yoshio Ryoto was recently promoted after his boss was assassinated

By FRANK DI PIETRO
Special correspondent

Young and ambitious Japanese junior executives have hit on an evil but easy way to climb the corporate ladder — they have their bosses bumped off by hired Ninja assassins!

In the first seven months of 1991 16 middle-level executives were found brutally murdered. Evidence found at the crime scene — including killing devices found embedded in each victim's body — has convinced police that the savage acts were carried out by Ninja killers.

A single-thread links each crime," a homicide detective in Tokyo declared. "Every victim was the director of a department handling with very ambitious lower executives.

"In [illegible] crimes were committed by [illegible] Ninja warriors whose services were hired by one or more junior executives who will stop at nothing in their [illegible] for more power and money."

The detective said in each case a junior executive who worked under the murder victim was promoted to fill his dead boss's shoes.

"Of course, this was very convenient for other workers," the cop explained. "When the victim's position was filled, the promotion created another vacancy.

"When that was filled, an other vacancy opened up. In this way several people moved up the corporate ladder.

"This is what has convinced us that the junior executives are banding together to hire the Ninja assassins to rub out their boss and clear open the door to advancement."

The detective said there is strong evidence that the Ninja themselves may be seeking out situations where their fiendish services would appeal to ambitious young executives who are impatient to wait out their turn on corporate stairs.

"There are all more than just mere suspicions," he explained.

"We are beginning to get inside information from those who know what was going on but were passed over when the promotions were made.

"It's only a matter of time before we have all the evidence — and the assent of the magistrates — to make arrests that will shock the Japanese business world.

"But we can only hope that we can get before yet another executive falls victim to the greed and treachery of the ambitious men eager to take his place."

Cops blame ruthless businessmen for 16 murders so far this year

A Kansas farmer is raising giant hamsters the likes of which the world has never seen — the critters are 3 feet tall and weigh 175 pounds.

"My animals aren't like those little hamsters you have for pets. Mine are the common hamster variety but they stand up on their hind legs and look you right in the eye," said Frans Melani, a scientist who has a small sprout north of Wichita.

"And they're as mean as they are big unless you know how to handle them. I start training them when they're two weeks old."

Melani, who is on leave from his post at an eastern university, brought two males and ten female hamsters back from his native Belgium six years ago.

"I felt confident after earlier experiments that I could increase their size, but I never dreamed they'd grow to be as big as a German shepherd," said the scientist.

Melani injects a hormone into his "special" hamsters once a week to increase their appetite. Asked about his growth formula, Melani shot back, "Why should I tell you in a few seconds what it has taken me decades to develop?"

"The average hamster will eat about 100 pounds of corn and potatoes during the winter months. Mine eat almost 40 times that amount," he said.

Instead of weighing 2 to 3 pounds, his hamsters have eaten their way up to an average of 175 pounds. "I could make them even larger, but their health would suffer."

Three of his giant hamsters guard his home and vegetable farm around the clock.

They're already faced down a couple of pet mutts, a Doberman and a poodle who may still be running for his life.

"The Doberman took one look at Lee's teeth and decided he didn't want any part of him. As for the poodle, I think he thought he'd walked into another world when Lee went after him.

"Hamsters are extremely protective of their turf and they farm it their turf," he said. "You might say they defend their territory — vigorously.

"Eventually, I plan to sell my giant hamsters as guards for the blind or as guards for prisoners," Melani said. "They

HEARTBROKEN SENDS RAPIST TO PRISON 99 YEARS!

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

"I did what was right, but it shattered my life: I put my beloved son behind bars for 99 years!"

Those are the heartbreaking words of anguished mom Paula Wood, who sent her 25-year-old son Damon to jail for rape. The Houston, Tex., nurse called police and turned him in after seeing a wanted poster with his picture on it. Damon was arrested and convicted of breaking into the apartment of Kimberly Ann McSherry and raping her on June 6, 1990.

"It breaks my heart to see him in jail," Paula told The NEWS in an exclusive interview.

"It's painful. But I figure he's better off where he is now and I am praying they can do something to help him."

Paula admits that her son has been troubled almost since the day he was born. The boy was a runaway, a convicted robber, a drug user and was even confined in a mental institution in the years before he committed the rape.

But the loving mom says she had hoped Damon would find himself or get help so that he could live a normal life. It wasn't until she saw a wanted poster distributed by the rape victim that she realized he was too far gone to live free.

"The girl he raped put up over 2,500 fliers all over town and one was near my house," said Paula. "Someone saw it and jokingly told Damon, 'That looks like you on the poster,' and Damon said, 'That is me, but I didn't rape her.'

"He was panicked. I knew something was going on. I asked him if he killed her and he said, 'No, I didn't kill her.' I thought he'd be better off in jail. I thought at least he'd be alive and off the street and could get psychological help."

Damon was arrested and examined by two psychiatrists who declared him fit to stand trial. In June 1991, he was convicted of having raped 40-year-old schoolteacher Kimberly Ann McSherry on her living room sofa and sentenced to 99 years in jail.

"I'm not proud of what I did," said Paula. "It kills me — it shows how difficult life is.

Russkie millionaires form their own club!

A Soviet businessman has started his country's first club for millionaires!

German Sterligov said he founded the Russian Club of Young Millionaires to protect himself and his pals from government persecution.

"Under this nation's strange laws I am a millionaire today and tomorrow I may be ruled a criminal," he explained. "Millionaires are one of the most oppressed groups in the nation.

"We are outcasts and receive no sympathy from government or ordinary citizens."

Sterligov made his fortune in building materials — a scarce commodity in the Soviet Union — and believes the government is less likely to seize his cash now that he and other successful businessmen have banded together.

"We figure that the government won't single out any one of us," he said.

"They'll have to struggle us together."

SCREW-IN CHOPPERS

Store-bought choppers will be replaced by screw-in teeth within the next 10 years.

"Anybody who loses teeth will have dental implants fastened directly into the upper or lower jaw," said Dennis Smith of the University of Toronto.

Them implants will act as new roots for artificial teeth.

"Probably by the end of the century, nobody will have dentures," Smith said.
